Fourth Sunday
of Easter (Year B)

'The good shepherd is one who lays down his life for his sheep.'

Today's Gospel reminds us what Christian leadership should look like. Jesus didn't liken it to princes in palaces, corporate giants in glass building or Church leaders standing on ceremony. His metaphor was of a compassionate shepherd who sleeps in the field with his flock with 'the smell of the sheep' as one who knows them so well and loves them so dearly that he lays down his own life for them.

This image of the good shepherd expresses Jesus' utterly free gift of himself for us - the Good Shepherd giving his life to save his sheep. A couple of weeks ago our liturgy took us to Gethsemane where armed soldiers arrested Jesus and it appeared that Jesus was a victim of Jewish and Roman law. Today's Gospel, however, makes it clear that Jesus' death is an act of loving self-surrender, a supremely free act of love.

He is the shepherd who places his own life at risk to defend his flock. He is the shepherd who will die if that will enable his flock to live. Thus his relationship with the sheep is one that implies deep intimacy and a compassion which is not pity, sympathy or commiseration but rather a faithfulness that embodies what Easter is all about.

If we are worthy followers of Jesus, we will all have our fair share of Good Fridays, but Easter Sunday tells us that just as God remained faithful to Jesus, so Jesus will remain faithful to us, as one with us all no matter what.

Let us pray today at this Eucharist that our own and our Christian leaders' compassion is that of the Good Shepherd - giving over of our lives on the Cross and taking them up again in the Resurrection.
