5th Sunday in Ordinary Time - February 7th 2016 Reflection

Last night I had the privilege of attending a preview of a new movie called “Risen” backed by a Sony Pictures production house. It is a drama based on the resurrection of Christ but from the perspective of a Roman Centurion who was present at the death of Jesus (and even participated in the death) and who has been tasked with finding out what happened to Jesus’ body after it went missing from the tomb.

As this movie looks at the resurrection story from a non-believer’s point of view, it raises some very interesting and thought-provoking issues: Who was Jesus that he commanded a league of followers even before his death and resurrection? Who was Jesus that he died and came back to life again? Who was Jesus that people who had encounters with him were so changed afterwards?

In today’s readings we see three people who were remarkably changed by their encounters with Jesus – Isaiah, Paul & Simon Peter. In the first reading, Isaiah is convinced of his own and his country-men’s sinfulness after seeing God in a vision, but God forgives him his sins and calls him to be a messenger for God.

In the second reading, Paul reminds the believers of his own sinful past in persecuting the Church and of his forgiveness through the death of Christ. He also reminds believers that he is God’s messenger and that the gospel he preaches is directly from God.

Likewise in the Gospel, Simon Peter has an encounter with Jesus while fishing and becomes convinced of his sinfulness, but Jesus tells him to not be afraid and to become a fisher of men instead of fish.

This series of events – an encounter of God, an awareness of our sinfulness, our forgiveness by God and God’s command to be his messengers – is not just for the people in Biblical times, it is not just for men and it is not just for people in power. This is how God still works in the world today. He still asks, as he did of Isaiah in the first reading, more than 2700 years ago:-

“Whom shall I send? Who will be my messenger?”

Do we have the courage to say, as Isaiah did, “Here I am, send me”?

(“Risen” the movie official release date is 18/2/16 and it will be showing at the Garden City Cinemas).

LENT—Project Compassion

“In a world where there is so much wealth, so many resources to feed everyone, it is unfathomable that there are so many hungry children”. Pope Francis

With the Lenten season beginning next week, it is timely to reflect on the power of compassion.

So check out the many different things you can do to raise awareness and stand in solidarity with the world's poorest people.

Your generous support of Project Compassion truly makes a difference.

There are Project Compassion boxes and envelopes available at the entrances to the church. Please collect one to take home.

CARMELITE COMMUNITY NEWS

Carmelite, Brother Sean Keefe, was awarded the OAM in the Australia Day Honours 2016
He is the first Carmelite in Australia to receive this award.

Br Sean, Chaplain at Whitefriars College, Donvale VIC, said he was 'surprised and honoured and a bit embarrassed' to receive the award for his services to the City of Manningham and his long-time involvement with the people of Timor-Leste. "I like to stay in the background," he said. "My most valuable resource is working with wonderful and generous friends."

Br Sean has been raising awareness and funds for the people of East Timor since 2004.

Br Sean has previously been recognised for his services to the City of Manningham, receiving the Australia Day Citizen of the Year award in 2011. Congratulations Br Sean .
